"STRETCH-PANTS VIGILANTES" — A group of housewives calling themselves the "Stretch-Pants Vigilantes" picket in La Mirada, Calif., against the Teamsters strike against food stores in that area, and also help a grocer unload a delivery truck. Some 20 showed up after store manager John Rolbricht, 30, complained that he lost 10 pounds in weight unloading trucks to keep his shelves stocked when drivers refused to cross a Teamster picket line.

Goldwater Seems To Seek Spark To Ignite Campaign

By JACK BELL
AP Political Analyst

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona heads into the final three weeks of campaigning still thwarted in efforts to dramatize the back-to-the-constituents and he calls the overriding issue in the presidential contest.

In wide-ranging attacks on President Johnson in his coast-to-coast journeys, the Republican presidential nominee has tried out a variety of approaches to the voters with results that do not seem to have satisfied him fully.

He has assailed the President for promoting coexistence with the Communists. He has argued with administration officials over the reliability, deliverability and control of nuclear weapons.

Goldwater has pictured himself as a champion of Social Security while condemning the Johnson proposal for tax-financed health care for the elderly. He has called for a five per cent annual reduction in income taxes, promising at the same time to balance the budget.

He has charged the President with "reckless spending" and mocked Johnson as a man who carries a "shopping list" from which he invites voters to select their benefits.

Goldwater has called for a "return of morality" to the White House. He has sparked some of his loudest applause by jibing at Johnson's former association with Bobby Baker and asserting that "the shadow of scandal falls across the White House itself."

While he generally has avoided direct statements on civil rights, he told rallies in the prosperous suburbs of Philadelphia — where the so-called white backlash is presumed to exist — that minorities are running the government under Johnson. He has inveighed against crime in the streets.

These issues have been offered singly and in groups, with careful checks made of the reaction to each. Judging from the scattergun approach the GOP nominee still is using, none has showed up as a sockwaller by itself.

Goldwater keeps coming back to the constitutional issue of "what kind of a country are we going to have tomorrow?" He charges that Johnson has embraced socialism, which he described in Lubbock, Tex., as "not evil" although highly undesirable.

He told an opulent audience at the World Affairs Council in Los Angeles that the people don't want a paternalistic government such as he said Johnson is conducting.

The crowd gave him a big hand when he said he wants to "go back to the Constitution and the Declaration of Independence."

There is some rather widespread feeling among his advisers that if Goldwater had stuck closely to the conservative vs. liberal theme from the beginning, he might have made more headway in efforts to unify his own party and to chip away conservative Democrats from Johnson. A number of associates wish that such matters as the control of nuclear weapons hadn't been brought up at all.

Ohio's Highways Take Heavy Toll

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Traffic accidents took another heavy toll of lives this past week end, killing at least 28 persons.

It was the second October weekend with more than 20 traffic deaths and brought the month's total to at least 48 dead.

With three weekends to go, October may become the most deadly month so far this year. The worst previous month, August, also a five-weekend month, had a total of 84 traffic deaths.

LBJ's Guards Worried

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two anonymous telephone warnings and a brush with a placard bearer worried President Johnson's bodyguards during his Western campaign swing, but no trouble materialized.

A youth whose Goldwater-Miller placard grazed the President's hat Sunday in Phoenix was released by police after questioning.

Police found a revolver in a pocket of another youth. He said he was carrying it to protect the President. Phoenix police released him later on bail.

As the President rode through the Long Beach, Calif., area later in the day, Secret Service men were aware that local authorities had received reports of two telephone calls, one warning directly and the other indirectly that the President's life was in danger.

A Secret Service man stood in the car following Johnson's, holding an automatic rifle. Normally such weapons are carried out of sight.

In Phoenix, detective Andrew Watzek said that on Johnson's airport arrival he noticed a bulge in the right trouser pocket of Clarence R. Fetzer, 18, and found a 22-caliber revolver inside.

Fetzer, booked for carrying a concealed weapon, was later released on $300 bail.

Thirty minutes later, Thomas Lee Wilkins, 17, of Phoenix, was arrested when two policemen saw him swing a Goldwater-Miller placard that brushed the President's hat as Johnson walked along a fence shaking hands.

The President fended the sign off with his hands and said the incident was an accident.

"I wasn't hit," he said. "They just push. They always do."

Wilkins was released after questioning by Secret Service agents.

In Los Angeles, the sheriff's office issued an all-points alert Sunday after it received an anonymous telephone call that a man who disagreed with President Johnson's views was missing from his home, along with his rifle.

The man was found in his home later. He said he hadn't gone near the President. He gave no explanation for the rifle in his car, deputies said. The man was not arrested.

Long Beach police said Friday a telephone company operator told them she received a call from an anonymous man who said:

"President Johnson will not live through his trip through Long Beach."

Police checked the area in nearby Los Alamitos from which the operator said the call had been received but found nothing.

Fund Drive Now Stands At $24,000

Industrial Phase Passes Goal; City Effort Nets $1670

A little more than $24,000 is now deposited in the Pickaway County Community Fund collection till.

This figure was established following yesterday's residential campaign in the city. The collection to date amounts to about 62 per cent of the $38,788 goal.

According to Fund spokesmen, yesterday's residential effort produced $1,670. This figure is expected to increase after complete results are tabulated.

The residential drive was conducted from 1 to 3 p. m. Campaign officials commended solicitors for what was termed an excellent job that produced good results.

Also coming in for a share of praise was the industrial phase of the campaign which passed its goal of $22,000. Collections in this category now total $22,525, with three more firms still to submit reports.

Solicitors said addressed envelopes were left where persons were not at home yesterday. These contributions may be mailed to Fund headquarters.

Annual Portland Sale Brings in $129,300

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Some 1,000 formally-dressed bidders put down $129,300 over the weekend for such items as homes, aircraft and cars at a benefit auction.

The fifth annual auction for the Portland Zoo and the Oregon Museum of Science and Industry brought in a record amount for donated merchandise valued at $200,000.

Mrs. Miller Tweeks Whiskers of Oldster

DETROIT (AP) — Mrs. William E. Miller may have set a new campaign trend Sunday while making a public appearance in Detroit on behalf of her husband, the Republican candidate for vice president.

She playfully tweaked the whiskers of Stanley Olejarczyk, 82. Both were participating in a Pulaski Day parade.

Ailing Singer Depends on Faith

CHICAGO (AP) — Mahalia Jackson, who struggled from poverty in Louisiana to international fame as a gospel singer, is now waging the most critical battle of her career.

The onetime washerwoman is recuperating slowly from a serious heart ailment in a Chicago hospital. She's doing it the only way she knows how, she says, "with faith and cheerfulness."

"I never knew so many people loved me, I never knew so many thought so much of my singing," Miss Jackson, 50, said Sunday in a bedside interview.

Her tiny hospital room has overflowed with a daily stream of cards, letters and flowers, many from Europe and Asia. "There were so many flowers," she said with a soft laugh, "that one morning I woke up and thought I was dead."

The 200-pound singer entered Little Company of Mary Hospital Sept. 1. "I had a terrible pain in my chest," she recalled. "The doctors told me my blood pressure was over 200."

Doctors have ordered Miss Jackson to remain in bed indefinitely. Visiting is restricted and no telephone calls to her room are permitted.

The heart trouble came after an exhausting year of touring. Long a favorite in Europe, she completed a lengthy and successful overseas trip in May. "I've been working too hard for too many years," she said. "I'm tired."

Her normally booming voice thinned by exhaustion, Miss Jackson spoke hesitantly. "I'm sorry," she said, "I feel a little slow today."

"A heart condition is even more trouble than an operation," she said. "It takes so long."

"I thought I'd be able to get up and out after a little rest, but it's not so easy. I've never felt like this before."

Born near New Orleans, the energetic singer was working regularly as a scrubwoman when she was 13. Later she moved to Chicago where she became known for her singing at Baptist conventions.

She made her first recording in 1934 and by 1948 she was a celebrity. In recent years she has devoted much time to the civil rights movement.

Once Around Roundtown

MRS. Wilmina Wolford Pickaway County librarian, compiled the following facts in connection with today's observance of Columbus Day:

Columbus Day honors the date Christopher Columbus discovered America. . . It is celebrated on Oct. 12, a legal holiday throughout the United States.

Most schools hold programs and special events on this day and many organizations sponsor parades and hold banquets.

The first Columbus Day celebration was held in 1792 when New York City celebrated the 300th anniversary of his landing. . .

In 1892, President Benjamin Harrison called upon the people of the United States to celebrate Columbus Day on the 400th anniversary of the event. . . Columbus Day has been celebrated since 1920. . .

Although the land Columbus discovered was not named after him, many monuments honor him. . . The Republic of Columbia in South America bears his name in addition to towns, rivers, streets and public buildings.

The name Columbia has also been used as a poetic personification of the United States. . . The Columbus Memorial Library in Washington, D. C. contains 90,000 volumes on the 21 American republics. . .

Many Latin American countries also celebrate Oct. 12 as the Dia de la Raza (Day of the Race). . . It honors the Spanish heritage of the peoples of Latin America. . . Celebration ceremonies feature speeches, parades and colorful fiestas.

A new season's low was recorded in the Pickaway County area early Sunday morning — a chilly 22 degrees. . .

The weatherman has issued a somewhat brighter outlook for the next few days. . . A warming trend is on its way and the expected low tonight is to be about 40. . . The high for today and tomorrow is to be in the 60s.

Private Rites Planned for Eddie Cantor

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Eddie Cantor will be buried as he spent most of the last 11 years of his life — apart from the public that made him a top star during a golden era of American entertainment.

Groman Mortuary announced today that funeral services for the 72-year-old comedian, who died of a heart attack Saturday night, will be private.

Cantor was born Edward Iskowitz in New York City Jan. 31, 1892. He came out of the slums with a vitality that soon captured audiences wherever he performed. A small man, he possessed enormous energy.

"If you knew Suzy," he chanted to the audience, tapping his palms together.

"We're making whoopee," he sang, with a roll of his immense banjo-eyes that were expressive without being offensive.

"I'd love to spend this hour with you," he sang to radio audiences across the nation.

Two generations became acquainted with the high-pitched voice, the crisp gag line.

Cantor's career spanned the years from amateur night in the Bowery to burlesque to vaudeville to the Siegfried Folies to movies, radio and television.

In 1953, when Cantor was establishing himself in the new medium of television, he suffered a heart attack. That brought an end to his career as an active performer.

Cleveland Ford Plant Is Struck

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Ford Motor Co.'s two big engine plants and foundry in suburban Brook Park were idle today as the result of a strike by Local 1377, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (IBEW).

Some 200 electrical workers struck Sunday after the union rejected a contract offer by the company. Most of those on strike work in maintenance.

Operations at the plants were suspended because members of Local 120, United Auto Workers, did not cross the picket lines established by the electrical workers.

Washington (AP) — Assistant Secretary of Labor Esther Peterson, a Democrat, has received a letter asking for a contribution to the Republican National Committee.

CHICAGO (AP) — Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., hoped to be released soon from Passavant Memorial hospital after three days of treatment for a swollen right ankle and emphysema, a lung ailment.

Harold Rainville, Dirksen's secretary, said Sunday the senator was "in very good condition."

Poll Shows Barry Picks Up Support

NEW YORK (AP) — The latest poll by Louis Harris says Republican presidential candidate Barry Goldwater picked up small support since a similar survey made in mid-September.

The poll results reported Sunday night showed 8 per cent of the voters polled favored President Johnson and 34 per cent supported Goldwater.

Eight per cent of those polled still had not made a choice, the poll showed.

The results showed a 2 per cent boost in favor of Goldwater over the mid-September poll.

Johnson Says Goldwater Runs 'Against' Presidency

RENO, Nev. (AP) — President Johnson criss-crossed the West today, saying his Republican rival sees the government as such a terrible thing it seems "he is running against the office of president rather than for it."

Johnson's first stop of a busy 20-hour day was Reno, where a large crowd greeted him.

Sheriff Bud Young said it was the largest in the city's history. Johnson slapped directly at Goldwater, his Republican rival, in a speech delivered from the steps of Reno's pink stucco state office building.

He did so without naming Goldwater. But his target was unmistakable.

"One candidate," he said, "is roaming around the country saying what a terrible thing the government is. Sometimes I think he is running against the office of president, instead of for it."

"We here in the West," said Johnson, "know how the West was won. It wasn't won by a man on a horse who thought he could settle every argument with a quick draw and a shot from the hip."

"We here in the West aren't about to turn in our sterling silver American heritage for a plastic credit card that reads: 'Shoot now, pay later.'"

And, Johnson said, the West wasn't settled "in saloon fights or by galloping vigilantes" but rather by sober and responsible men and women.

The President spent the night in Nevada, talking to local politicians and resting in the penthouse of the Sahara Hotel in Las Vegas.

Roulette wheels whirled and slot machines played their tinkling melody more than 20 stories below him. But he never saw these features of Las Vegas life since his route to and from his quarters was remote from the bustling casino.

The President flew to Nevada after a Sunday that saw him go to church — "The first day of the week belongs to God" — in Goldwater's hometown of Phoenix, Ariz. Later, he did some speechmaking, which wasn't exactly nonpolitical, in Long Beach and San Francisco, Calif.

Big crowds were the rule along the way, especially in the Long Beach area, where the curbside throng probably was as large as any Johnson has seen during the campaign.

All through the West, Johnson has talked about keeping the peace, maintaining prosperity, showing compassion in social programs, and promoting frugality in government.

General Motors Peace Not Sighted

DETROIT (AP) — Hopes for an end this week to the United Auto Workers' strike against General Motors Corp. all but vanished over the weekend as a spurt in at-the-plant agreements died off.

Only six local-level agreements, which supplement the national contract, were reached Saturday night and Sunday, leaving 88 still to go out of 130.

This came in the wake of a Friday-Saturday thrust that lifted local-level agreements to 36.

GM and the UAW reached settlement on a national contract last Monday after an 11-day nationwide strike against GM in support of its national contract demands, most of which it won.

British Poll Is Thursday

LONDON (AP) — Britain's rowdy national election campaign moved into its final phase today with subtle political arguments drowned in a rising tide of noise and disorder.

Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home, 61, the Conservative party leader, and Harold Wilson, 48, the Laborite chief, shouted themselves hoarse in an effort to be heard above the din.

Their lot and that of their colleagues was hard. In meeting after meeting, attendants have had to frog-march hecklers from halls and toss them out of doors.

Temper shorted with the approach of the voting Thursday.

About 28 million British men and women will elect a new 630-seat House of Commons and give either the Conservative or the Labor party a mandate to govern this country for the next five years.

If the Conservatives win, Douglas-Home will remain prime minister. Wilson will replace him at No. 10 Downing St. if the Labor party wins.

Both men are leading their parties in a national campaign for the first time. Douglas-Home is trying to give the Conservatives their fourth straight triumph. Wilson hopes to end the Laborites' 13 years in the wilderness.

The campaign began sedately enough following the end of the old Parliament Sept. 25. Wilson argued: "It's time for a change to get Britain moving." Douglas-Home countered: "Protect your prosperity by keeping the Conservatives in power."

Now the two leaders, living on their nerves, deplore the degeneration of this campaign into what some experts regard as Britain's most disorderly political contest of this century.

"It would be a national tragedy if vital issues are muffled by noise," Wilson said.

Douglas-Home said ordinary heckling — the give-and-take between a speaker and some member of the audience — is traditional and has a place in British politics. But rowdy behavior is something else again, he said. "It must stop."

No one knows why the mood has changed. One newspaper writer said: "Suddenly it's like the night the fox got in the hen-house and dad was too drunk to find his gun."

For election purposes Britain is divided into 630 districts, each averaging about 50,000 voters and each sending one member to the House. The districts have their rival Conservative and Labor party headquarters and sometimes a Liberal party one as well.

Pilot, Doctor, Scientist Ride Rocket Ship

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union rocketed a space ship into orbit today carrying a pilot, a scientist and a doctor — the world's first space vehicle to carry more than one person.

An official announcement said it was sent aloft by a powerful kind of rocket.

As the space ship circled the earth every 90 minutes, the pilot messaged that all instruments were working well, the physician examined his colleagues and they had lunch. The space ship is named Vostok-Sunrise.

Aboard were Col. Vladimir Komarov, the pilot; Konstantin Feoktistov, scientist; and Dr. Boris Yegorov, physician.

The booster rocket sent the space ship into an orbit that ranged from 2 miles to 110 miles above the earth, an official announcement said. Some scientists abroad considered this historic first one more big step in the Soviet race with the United States to the moon.

The United States plans to launch its first two-man vehicle some time early next year.

There was no indication how long the space craft — its size and weight not given — would remain aloft. But the official Tass news agency said this first manned orbit by the Soviet Union since the summer of 1963 was designed to test the effects of weightlessness and other stresses on man on a long flight. This was a hint the craft might break the old record of almost five days.

In the last flight, in June 1963, Lt. Col. Valery F. Bykovsky stayed aloft 4 minutes short of five days and later suffered from various ailments from the long period of weightlessness.

A taped television broadcast from the space ship today showed the occupants smiling. The film was dim and it was

Doubts on Russian Space Intentions Now Erased

WASHINGTON (AP) — Any doubt that the Soviet Union is still in the moon race faded away today — with the sunrise.

Sunrise — Vostok — is the name of the new Soviet, three-man spaceship launched into orbit early this morning.

It points up these salient facts:

—The Soviet Union has a mighty new space rocket, probably designed strictly for space flight purposes.

—The Russians are systematically going about answering the crucial medical question of man's performance in space — to answer especially some of their worries about the wasting away of human bodies and life processes in weightlessness.

—They likely have, or are developing, the ability to reach the moon and return, and to place in orbit around the earth a space laboratory or orbital military station.

Dr. Bernard M. Wagner, chairman of the pathology department of the New York Medical College and student of space medicine, told a meeting of U.S. space experts earlier this year the Soviets were worried about the effects of weightlessness on the ability of the human heart to function.

Wagner suggested that the Russians may be planning a large, multiman rotating space station for a 14-day endurance flight before the end of 1964.

In weightlessness, as in prolonged bedrest, the heart gets a vacation, at least a period of reduced work. Heart muscles react to work by getting stronger, weakened by a smaller workload. Astronauts returning from relatively brief stints of weightlessness have shown lessened heart performance — so far reversible within 12 hours of earth-type gravity that makes the heart work normally again.

The current sunrise flight may be used to diagnose how the heart-wasting occurs and what can be done about it.

New Cleveland University Seen Hurting Other Units

KENT, Ohio (AP)—State Rep. Robert H. Longworth, R-Carroll, says establishment of a new Cleveland State University could result in a loss of funds for other state-supported schools.

"I would presume that Kent

State is not the only one that faces the possibility of taking a cut in its state appropriations if the Cleveland setup goes in," Longworth told The Associated Press Sunday night.

"There's only so much money to go around now, and all state universities have planned for the future on the basis of the amount of funds they thought they would get."

In another development Sunday night, Dr. Robert I. White, president of Kent State University, announced that he will seek the return of Longworth and Sen. Robert F. Stockdale, R-Portage, to the Kent payroll "when their legislative responsibilities are ended."

Over the weekend Kent said the two legislators will be dropped from its payroll Nov. 8—the day before the legislature meets in special session to consider the establishment of a Cleveland State University with Fenn College as a nucleus.

Each legislator has been earning about $800 a month at Kent. Stockdale is assistant to the director of university and public relations and has taught part or fulltime at Kent since 1946. Longworth, a retired school superintendent from Augusta, is a supervisor of student teachers in Stark, Wayne, Jefferson, Richland, Columbiana and Carroll counties.

The contracts of both men were to have expired Dec. 31. Both said the University's decision reflected unfairly on their integrity. They indicated their connections with Kent would not influence their votes.

The Kent action on removing the legislators from its payroll apparently came after published reports that Stockdale and Longworth were due to vote next month on the Cleveland situation.

"The whole affair has made me a little hot under the collar," said Stockdale, a member of the Senate Education Committee.

In his statement White said under "normal circumstances" Kent's ongoing forward thrust "will not be hampered by a public institution of higher education in Cleveland."

Venezuelans Launch Search For American

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—A force of 3,000 police and National Guardsmen pressed the search today for the deputy chief of the U.S. Air Force mission to Venezuela who was kidnapped by Communist terrorists.

A caller identifying himself as a leader of the outlawed pro-Castro Armed Forces of National Liberation (FALN) said the terrorists would try Lt. Col. Michael Smolen before a secret tribunal on charges of interfering in Venezuelan affairs.

Worried officials conceded they had no clues in the abduction of the 45-year-old Chandler, Ariz., officer from in front of his Caracas home Friday morning by five armed terrorists.

Identifying himself as Commandante Tulio of the FALN, the caller said the kidnapping was in reprisal for a military crackdown on the FALN guerrillas.

A FALN statement labeled the abduction "Operation Viet Cong." This was a reference to the FALN's previous explanation that it was holding Smolen hostage for a condemned Communist terrorist in South Vietnam.

Smolen's wife, Marian, of Rockford, Ill., issued a statement saying she "clings to the hope that no harm will come to my husband." Earlier the Smolen family got a call from an officer self-described FALN spokesman who said the colonel was safe and unhurt.

Authorities were flooded by calls and tips. Weeding through the calls has hampered search efforts.

None of the latest calls, however, repeated an earlier warning that Smolen would be shot if the South Vietnamese government carried out the execution of Viet Cong terrorist Nguyen Van Troi, 19.

Troi was convicted of trying to mine a bridge outside Saigon over which U.S. Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara was to pass last May.

Merchandise Taken from Parked Auto

A complaint that new merchandise valued at $267.80 was stolen from a parked car was investigated Saturday night by city police.

The theft was reported by Henry Daniels, Route 8, Chillicothe. He said he and his wife were in Bert's Bar on Maplewood Ave. and the car was parked nearby.

According to Daniels, the auto was locked, except for one wing glass.

Merchandise reported missing was: three electric blankets, one regular type blanket, four women's car coats, one regular woman's coat, eight full size sheets, four bedspreads and throwrug sets and two foam pillows.

Patrolmen Richard Anderson and Gerald Hixon investigated.

HANOVER, N.H. (AP)—Tolled industrialist Edward Lamb charged today the federal government is not attracting competent management talent because of low salaries, "security checks and long delays in clearances."

Speaking to the business school at Dartmouth College here, Lamb declared: "Congress has not recognized the need for substantial expenditures in developing managerial manpower."

Soviet Seen Pushing West

Goal Is Said: Get
Allies Out of Berlin

BERLIN (AP)—Former U.S. foreign-policy adviser Robert D. Murphy thinks the Soviet Union is as determined as ever to drive the United States and its allies out of West Berlin.

Murphy said in an interview here Sunday he believes the present absence of pressure in Berlin results not from a Soviet desire for an entente with the West but because of Soviet difficulties with Red China and Moscow's other international problems.

"I think that their determination is just as positive today as it ever was to drive us out of West Berlin," Murphy declared.

Murphy was political adviser to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower during World War II and to Gen. Lucius D. Clay, then military governor of the U.S. one of Germany, when the Russians blockaded Berlin in 1948. He retired from the U.S. Foreign Service in 1959 and is president of a glass company.

Murphy said if the Russians should blockade Berlin again, the United States should break it by force.

"I think our position world wide and in Europe would be shattered if we did not," the former international troubleshooter for Presidents Roosevelt and Truman declared.

Murphy also advocated firm action if the Communists close East Berlin to Allied military personnel in uniform. He said the U.S. government seems prepared to agree to a denial of Allied access to the Soviet sector and that this would be "simply another step backward in the process of forcing us out of the area."

"I think that goes further than that because I believe that this Eastern sector has to be opened up in one way or another, and I think it can be done over a period of time," Murphy said.

"I think this wall must disappear. I believe that if they understand that to be our determination and objective, the chance of getting it will be much greater than if we just walk away as we have in the past."

Murphy said he thought now may be a good time because of the Kremlin's problems, to negotiate permanent and acceptable access rights to West Berlin without bringing the East Germans into it.

He is scheduled to appear Wednesday in Municipal Court for a preliminary hearing.

Patrolman Richard Blaney made the arrest after he discovered ammunition traded to Merle Campbell of Avon Drive matched the description of cartridges stolen from Rhodes.

Blaney said Trego admitted taking the ammunition and the gun.

Parked Vehicle Is Vandalized

A car vandalism complaint was investigated yesterday by city police.

Clarence Seyfang told officers two lines were scraped down the side of his 1964 convertible. Holes were cut on both sides of the vehicle top.

Sgt. Turney Ross and Patrolman William Brungs said the car was parked in front of Seyfang's house.

impossible to tell the size of the space cabin. All three men wore helmets.

"Two-way radio communications are maintained," said Tass. "The ship's crew report they withstood quite well the launch and the transition to weightlessness. All three feel fine."

Tass said purposes of the flight included: Test the new "multi-seat guided spaceship;" check the capacity to work together during space flight of a group of workers; scientific, physical and technical investigations in the conditions of space flight; study the effect of space flight on cosmonauts, and "carry out extended medicobiological research in the conditions of a long flight."

Tass said Voskhod was launched at 10:30 a. m. (2:30 a. m. EST).

The announcement said the orbiting was accomplished "by means of a new powerful launch vehicle." No details were given. "All systems on board the spaceship are functioning normally," Tass said.

The last previous Soviet cosmonauts in orbit were Valerian Bykovsky and Valentina Tereshkova, the first space woman. In separate space ships in June 1963, Bykovsky made 81 orbits in five days and Tereshkova made 48 orbits during the latter part of Bykovsky's flight.

Soviet scientists later revealed that the long period of weightlessness caused Bykovsky to suffer temporary effects of low blood pressure, fatigue, emotional and balance instability, and some alterations to bodily chemical properties.

This has put a limit to space flights of about two weeks until the problems can be solved, the scientists said. There was no indication how long the three-man craft would stay up.

Komarov is 37, married and the father of two children. Feoktistov is 38, also married and has a small son. The doctor at 27 is the youngest member of the crew. He too is married and has a son.

The announcement 7 minutes after the launching was heralded on Moscow radio and television by chimes that mean something important is coming. The three-man satellite is the seventh manned Soviet space flight in 3½ years. It carries cosmonauts seven, eight and nine.

The United States has put four astronauts into orbit. The longest flight was on May 1, 1963, when Air Force Maj. Gordon Cooper made 22 orbits.

The Soviet Union's longest manned space flight was 81 orbits in five days of June 1963. Tass said Voskhod's orbit reached a maximum height of about 2 miles and a minimum height of about 110 miles.

Announcing completion of Voskhod's first loop around the earth, Tass said the crew radioed to the earth: "Feeling fine, the assignment will be carried out."

Yegorov gave the cosmonauts a general medical examination and the crew had lunch, Tass said.

Star Who Dislikes Cats Has Role in 'Cat' Story

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Fine thing. Hayley Mills is not at all fond of cats, and now she's starring in a movie called "That Darn Cat."

This may upset the feline fanciers of the world, but Hayley can't help how she feels. Her reasoning is this: "I always feel so — well, so unnecessary to cats. They're terribly independent, not at all like dogs. Oh, I suppose it would be a real compliment if a cat grew to like you, whereas most dogs will make friends with anyone."

"But I've never been able to make a go of it with cats. Trouble is, they know it. And this one will probably claw me to bits."

This one is a talented tabby who is playing the title role in the new Disney film, adapted from the book "Undercover Cat," by the mystery-writing

Gordons. The cat witnesses a robbery and kidnapping, follows the culprit and manages to escape, bearing a wristwatch back to Hayley. Hayley calls in an FBI man Dean Jones who happens to be allergic to cats, and . . . You get the idea.

It's always a pleasure to have the pucky Miss Mills back in town for one of her periodic visits. "That Darn Cat" is her first film in Hollywood since "Summer Magic" two years ago. At the advanced age of 18 she remains everyone's idea of what a teen-ager should be: lovely, ladylike, but full of life.

Even though she might be able to spread her wings, Hayley continued to stay in the family nest. She lives at home in England, and she will be joined here by her father and mother, the John Milles. Her father is arriving shortly to appear in "King Rat."

Hayley's interests are much the same as any 18-year-old's: her figure ("It seems I am always dieting; what a bore!"); boys (She has one in particular, but isn't talking about him); the Beatles ("They're simply marvelous"); and driving.

Steel Output Record Seen

Marketers Excited About Consumption

CLEVELAND (AP) — Steel production appears headed for a record this year, but the thing that steel marketers are most excited about is the prospect of a whopping record for consumption of steel as well, the magazine Steel reported today.

Consumption "is going to be higher this year than ever before," the trade publication predicted. "It will probably beat the record set last year (an estimated 77.8 million product tons) by more than five million tons. It will reach a new peak by keeping pace with the economy's record performance."

Steel said the "dramatic growth" in steel consumption "makes steel producers feel that they're turning the corner in their battle with competitive materials."

The mealworking weekly said that because "we've lost the big advantage we had in foreign trade," record consumption won't be necessarily mean record shipments.

"In 1955, the year mill shipments hit an all-time high of 84.7 million tons, we had a foreign surplus of nearly three million tons. This year, we'll probably have a trade deficit larger than that."

Shipments will total at least 87.5 million tons, Steel said if steel ingot production reaches the predicted record level of 125 million tons.

The magazine said shipments continued at a high level last week despite the strike at General Motors Corp.

Steel said estimated production of 2.6 million tons last week was expected to be topped this week. Operations now are at the annual rate of 135 million ingot tons, the highest level for more than a year.

Steel price composite on No. 1 heavy melting steel scrap held at $36.50 a gross ton, unchanged for the third straight week.

Auto Disputes Fog U.S. Economy

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Disputes in the auto industry continue to fog the nation's economic picture. The General Motors strike is dragging on and the threat of a strike against American Motors has developed.

As the GM strike entered its third week the effects were being felt in GM dealers' showrooms, where 1965 models were becoming scarce.

GM and the United Auto Workers Union reached tentative agreement on a national contract but disagreement on local issues at the company's 130 plants kept assembly lines idle.

The national contract paralleled those reached with Chrysler and Ford earlier, providing higher pensions, more holidays and higher wages.

Local issues mainly concerned working conditions. Agreements were reached at some plants but buttoning up the matter at all plants was a slow and tedious process.

Because storage space was filled, GM laid off workers at some plants which the union had permitted to keep operating. These plants built parts which are sold by GM to its competitors, Ford and Chrysler.

More than 275,000 GM workers were idle and the building of 1965 models had been shut off.

UAW workers began receiving strike benefits. The UAW has $67 million in its strike fund.

Akron Area Widow Is Bound, Robbed

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Four men bound and gagged the widow of a Northampton physician in her home Sunday night and stole about $12,000 in cash and jewelry, Summit County sheriff's deputies reported. The woman, Mrs. Mabelle Wharton, freed herself after the men escaped and called the sheriff's office. Deputies said the men fled in Mrs. Wharton's automobile.

Mrs. Wharton's husband, Dr. L. Earl Wharton, died in 1957 after attempting to cut off his wife from his estate. He buried more than $32,000 beneath a dog kennel next to his home, in an apparent attempt to keep the money from being probated. The money was found in 1958.

National contract bargaining was broken off between the UAW and American Motors, smallest of the U.S. automakers. The American Motors contract expires at midnight Oct. 15. The UAW said a strike would be called if agreement has not been reached by that time.

The disagreement may mean the death knell for American Motors' unique profit-sharing plan with its union workers. The union rejected a proposal to finance increased pension and insurance benefits through the profit-sharing program. A company spokesman said he felt profit sharing was dead.

The GM strike again cut into the industry's production which was estimated during the week at 92,000 passenger cars against 83,460 the previous week and 173,222 a year ago.

GM's Fisher Bodies Division asked steel companies to hold off delivery of a second week's schedule of steel shipments. But mills said they expect no cut-back in operations to resuit.

Bethlehem Steel production during the week rose to a 16-month high. Output of 2,563,000 tons topped the previous week by 3.3 per cent.

Bethlehem Steel Co. announced it will spend $85 million improving its Sparrows Point, Md., plant, the largest producer in the world.

Big retailers reported record sales for September. Sears, Roebuck & Co.'s sales rose 12.5 per cent to $509 million. J.C. Penney Co. boosted sales 15.2 per cent to $169 million. Montgomery Ward & Co. sold $25 million worth of goods, 15.2 per cent over last year.

The three major soap manufacturers — Procter & Gamble Co., Colgate-Palmolive Co. and Armour & Co. — boosted the prices of bar toilet soap 3 1/2 to 5 per cent.

The Census Bureau estimated that the rate of construction spending in September eased for the second consecutive month. New construction was put at an annual rate of $65,904,000,000, off from $65,977,000,000 in August and $66,641,000, in July.

Calling Retired Talent

Every year hundreds of thousands of Americans enter into retirement, never again to take up the work they spent a lifetime learning. With retirement ages heading lower—well into the productive life of homo sapiens—a great amount of diverse talent disappears into disuse each year.

Not all of this ability is lost at age 65. Some retirees busy themselves with hobbies and community interests employing both organizational abilities and technical skills. Others would like to do something constructive with their time, but have been unable to overcome prejudices against retired persons by both private and government persuasion.

There is one area in which they not only can serve, but are eagerly being sought by both private and government groups. That is in the role of adviser. Since each person accumulates a distinctive assortment of skills in a lifetime, each has something a little bit different to offer in knowledge or experience.

Almost all large corporations, and many small businesses, employ advisers to help with specific problems. Sometimes the employment is indefi-

Balm for Conservatives

For anyone who enjoys analysis for its own sake, the New York State senatorial campaign offers a most fascinating field for conjecture. With Kenneth Keating, a Republican, making a big pitch for the New York City liberal, labor and Jewish ethnic groups that turned so emphatically to the other Republican Senator, Jake Javits, in the last election, it could mean that Democratic Bobby Kennedy has been dealt a mortal wound. On the other hand, no Goldwaterite among the Irish, Polish or Italian ethnic groups that are deserting the Democrats can really go for Keating. What I seem to sense is that the Conservative Party choice for Senator, an obscure professor of history and political science at Iona College in the suburban New York town of New Rochelle, is going to run up quite a sizeable vote from upstate Republicans and big city Democrats. And it is a toss-up at the moment whether Kennedy or Keating is going to benefit more from defections to the third party man.

The obscure professor from New Rochelle is an extremely individualistic Italian-American named Henry Paolucci. Left to his own, personal inclinations, Paolucci would prefer to spend his leisure time composing music for the Spa Music Theatre in Saratoga Springs. But when the Rockefeller-dominated Republican Party in New York State refused to let the Conservative Party share the official Republican Goldwater electors in its polling booth line, and when Clare Boothe Luce was persuaded to bow out as the Conservative candidate for Senator, Professor Paolucci let his sense of duty get the better of his musical instincts.

This most unlikely Conservative candidate is unusual in that he thinks, personally, he may be taking as many votes away from Kennedy as he will be taking from Ken Keating. A draw of this sort would mean that he is not a menace on balance to either of the major party candidates, other things being equal. But the question is not as simple as that. The liberals have two candidates, Kennedy and Keating, in the field. But the conservatives have only one man, Paolucci. Now, some Republican conservatives are going to stick with Keating because he bears the traditional Republican label. Others are going to stay with him because they fear the re-emergence of a "Kennedy dynasty." Paolucci, on the other hand, will get Republican conservatives who want to chastise the Rockefeller Republicans for not putting out any real effort for Goldwater.

Nobody knows just how the Republican conservative arithmetic will affect the Keating chances on November 3. But it is a good guess that the liberal vote could benefit Keating more than Kennedy simply because of Republican Jake Javits's hold on the New York City liberals. Javits has made the Keating cause his own, which could mean a lot of ADA, Alex Rose-Liberal Party and Jewish ethnic votes in the Keating column. Meanwhile, the disoriented conservative Democrats who bulk large in Queens, Nassau and Rockland counties because of the recent population drift from Manhattan could easily have qualms about voting for either Kennedy or Keating. Who, then, is there to vote for but Henry Paolucci? And doesn't all the shuffling promise to make Bobby Kennedy the all-around loser?

Breaking the possible Paolucci vote down, the Conservative Party senatorial candidate stands to attract the "law enforcement vote" (the people who resent the fact that the New York City police force has been getting a bad press on the "police brutality" allegations). He also should get a big ethnic vote from Italians who think the old parties have done nothing to combat the stereotype that gangsters are mostly Sicilian in origin. Then there is the "institutional" conservative vote which likes the idea of having a party of its own. And finally, there are those Democrats who have moved to the conservative-minded suburbs. Against all this there is the incalculable attraction of the Kennedy name, which could draw votes away from Keating

A new army of advisers has just been organized by the Small Business Administration, with the purpose of aiding businessmen who have received loans from the government prosper and avoid some of the pitfalls almost any business finds in its path from time to time.

Composed of retired executives of national stature, the SBA army of 1,100 advisers goes by the name of SCORE (Service Corps of Retired Executives). All volunteers will serve without pay, and most will be assigned cases in their home towns. Although the government is not deliberately limiting the activities of SCORE to SBA-helped businessmen, the demands for executive talent and the limited number of volunteers will probably limit this group's activities to firms with government financing.

The greatest service SCORE can perform is to alert other retired persons with scarce skills to ways of contributing to the economy after retirement. With or without pay, the satisfaction of accomplishment is one of the basic needs of the retired.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

The next few months will find the air filled with flying footballs, as the brisk fall season highlights this national sport.

There is no need for the football field, in high school or college, to be the unhappy scene of fractures, broken noses, lost teeth and varied other injuries.

Protective devices and rigid adherence to rules can make football virtually free of danger areas. Critical surveys of these danger areas by coaches, educators and parents indicate clearly that the injurious consequences of football can be reduced to a minimum.

This exhilarating, competitive body contact sport can be free of hazards if some fundamental rules of safety are conscientiously followed.

A preliminary medical examination is absolutely essential before embarking on a program of conditioning. Tetanus booster shots are excellent as a precaution against the scrapes and field burns that are inevitable in this sport.

Makeshift, ill-fitting equipment are avoidable hazards. For safety equipment for football has been developed to a fine art.

Helmets are available with nose and jaw protectors that can withstand the pressures of the hard impact of the game. Rubber pads for the shoulders and the pelvis add safety without affecting the speed or the fun of the game.

This safety rule must never be departed from. All safeguards must be worn in training and practice sessions as well as in the games themselves.

Every body-contact sport has some inherent dangers. Even with the most carefully inspected precautions accidents do occur. It is imperative that all accidents—like sprains, strains and soft tissue injury—be reported immediately.

Sometimes football players in high schools and colleges are so enveloped in the spirit of sportsmanship that they refuse to admit their injuries for fear of being taken out of the game. Coaches must teach them to report injuries immediately.

They can be impressed by the fact that professional football players are remarkably free from long-term disabilities because they seek medical attention early.

The player himself must not be the judge of the seriousness of his injury. All bruises should be reported at the end of each play. Even a relatively unimportant injury can make the player a greater candidate for further severe injuries.

The value of this sport is undeniable. It is wholesome, stimulating and competitive. Unless there is a specific medical reason for non-participation, there is no reason why any healthy boy should be deprived of its benefits.

Pressures should not be exerted by the students or the family to reconsider any physical disqualification suggested by a doctor.

Safety advances, when strictly adhered to, can bring gratification to everyone who plays football.

The Business World

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK (AP) — Lures for impulse buying are being added to the Americanization of consumer habits in many lands.

European merchants are showing increased interest in this and other American methods of mass merchandizing and advertising. Their Japanese counterparts are reported showing even more.

Not everyone is happy about the invasion by Yankee consumer products, supermarkets, an buying and credit methods. A U.S. envoy to the Common Market has told a National Association of Manufacturers trade expansion mission that many Europeans fear their old ways of life may disappear under the rush to imitate American customs.

But here at home the Point-of-Purchase Advertising Institute (POPPI, pronounced Pop-Eye) reports that its overseas membership has quadrupled in the last five years and now represents all continents.

It expects more than 100 foreign visitors at its annual show next month in New York. The cure: how to get their customers to send 33 per cent more on impulse because of new advertising and market-place displays. In addition to its 17 Canadian members, there are 35 institute members scattered through Japan, South Africa, England, Switzerland, France, Italy, Mexico, Belgium, the Netherlands, Sweden, Venezuela, Iran, Australia and New Zealand.

And one OPPI member in southern California is indoctrinating a Peace Corps volunteer who can spread the idea in the business community in Peru.

American manufacturers, exporters, salesmen and designers have been learning the hard way that what creates the buying impulse in an American may backfire abroad. The approach now is to adapt advertising and product displays to local customs and idiosyncrasies.

To Europeans, for example, newness isn't the most important thing, and the hard sell to which Americans are injured falls flat over there. Timeliness in launching a selling campaign is even more important in Europe than here, and patience is a top requisite for any selling campaign.

But the institute reports that its overseas members are beginning to do some fine designing of displays on their own, with a more lighthearted quality of approach.

In many lands advertising and display must mind the local-color charts. An International Air Transport Association official notes that colors can make a lot of difference in promoting sales. Red is a lucky color to Chinese, while yellow is to the Thais. In several Asian countries the combination of purple and green is acceptable because Shinto religious leaders once wore them. But the combination of black, white and blue suggests only funerals to the Chinese.

Jack A. Wichert, president of POPAI, says Europe is now at the stage in retail distribution of products that the United States knew just prior to World War II.

Juvenile Aides Debate Value Of Publicity

NEW YORK (AP) — How do you prevent a juvenile delinquent who has committed an adult crime from becoming an habitual offender?

In the continuing debate over juvenile delinquency, experts have come up with two diametrically opposed proposals. Some experts claim the only preventive is widespread newspaper publicity, including the name of the juvenile for all to read.

Others say the best method is to shield the young offender from the glare of publicity.

In Montana, District Court Judge Lester H. Loble claims to have cut crime, carrying out a law he fathered in 1961, which provides for open court hearings for juveniles accused of felonies. This includes newspaper coverage which names names.

Judge Loble says that juvenile felony cases are down 49 per cent compared with the three-year period before 1961.

He asserts, "The twin enemies of crime are fear of punishment and fear of publicity."

Most of the police chiefs and prosecuting attorneys interviewed around the country by The Associated Press agree with Judge Loble's view that juvenile offenders' names should be published. They claim such publication has a deterrent effect.

Probation and parole officers generally oppose publication of names. Juvenile Court judges are split nearly 50-50.

Those who oppose publication of young lawbreakers' names do not agree on a reason as do those favoring publication.

Some think names of juveniles should not be published because it would be too harsh a punishment. Others think publication should be withheld because it is exactly what the offenders want.

Juvenile Court Judge Frank Breitenbach of Los Angeles says he knows of juvenile gangs who try to top each other for space in the press.

Donald E. MacFarlane, referee in Hennepin County (Minneapolis) Juvenile Court, says, "Many kids are looking for somebody to give them publicity on anything even their troubles with the law. I feel that when we publish names we only give them a little chance to gloat over their so-called accomplishments. Many of those kids carry their clippings with pride."

In Boston, Juvenile Court Judge John J. Connelly said the whole purpose of juvenile courts is "that children are immature and prone to make mistakes and vulnerable to outside influences and from within themselves. Their chances in later life should be protected."

William Cribbens, youth services consultant with the Chicago police, agrees. "Too many people who are jammed up as kids turn into good solid citizens. I've seen too many young people who would have been irreparably hurt if their names had been given out."

Asst. Prof. Abraham Alcabes, Department of Social Work at New York University, says, "The youngster is better dealt with as a person who needs help. When he is defined as a delinquent by the press, he is more likely to act that way."

Bernard Pyle of the Georgia Pardon and Parole Board, says, "Where children are protected by not publishing names, often they are not afraid to commit another offense."

"If names are used, the families might supervise children more."

Another comment as to the efficacy of social pressures on parents and offender whose name is published comes from Judge Elmo Holt of the Fulton County (Atlanta) Juvenile Court:

"Under certain circumstances, I think publishing the names would have a good effect."

"It might, however, have a better effect in small towns, where everyone in town could read the names."

In Detroit, presumably of a size where social pressure would be minimal, Wayne County Prosecutor Samuel Olsen advocates adding monetary pressure. "In the case of savage, unprovoked attacks on citizens, extreme publicity should be given to the case, especially to parents of these young toughs," Olsen said he thinks, further, the laws should be amended to make parents liable for damages where assault by a juvenile is intentional.

And in Walla Walla, Wash., Judge Albert N. Bradford of Superior Court conducted a study. For two years, 1962 and 1963, he released the names of juveniles over 14 in all traffic, liquor and delinquency felony cases. He released the names under 14 if it was a second offense.

"At the end of two years," Judge Bradford says, "I couldn't discern any apprecia-

Barry's Wife Set for Tour

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Barry Goldwater will criss-cross the nation on her own next week, seeking votes for her husband, the Republican presidential nominee.

The Republican National Committee announced her schedule today for the period from Oct. 13 through Oct. 21. It will take her into seven states and includes receptions with the wives of two men who unsuccessfully sought the nomination her husband won.

As in her first campaign swing through the Middle West Mrs. Goldwater will make no speeches. She will however hold several press conferences.

On Tuesday, she will hold a postluncheon reception in Omaha then fly to Milwaukee for a campaign appearance with her husband.

Wednesday she will be guest of honor at a Harrisburg, Pa., reception given by Mrs. William W. Scanton, wife of the Pennsylvania governor who sought the GOP nomination. There'll be a news conference and a dinner that night.

Thursday she'll be in Storm Lake and Des Moines, Iowa, for a press conference and two receptions. Friday she will be a luncheon guest in Chicago and join her husband there for the remainder of the weekend.

On Oct. 19 Mrs. Goldwater will be the honored guest at a New York City reception hosted by Mrs. Nelson A. Rockefeller, wife of the governor of New York, who was another GOP hopeful.

The next day she and her two daughters will be luncheon and reception guests of a GOP women's group in Huntington, L.I. She flies to Colorado on Oct. 21 for a series of appearances in Pueblo, Colorado Springs and Denver.

Lebanon Farmer Co-op Fire Loss Is $130,000

LEBANON, Ohio (AP)—Fire Chief William Rainey blames defective wiring for the fire that destroyed the Lebanon Farmers Co-op building Saturday and caused almost $130,000 damage. Firemen battled the blaze near the downtown area for more than three hours.

ble deterrent insofar as delinquency acts were concerned.

"Also I never discovered a single instance where notoriety in the newspaper was a factor in a youth's repeating an offense. I was unable to find that any harm was done by publishing their names."

"Publishing their names did not make an iota of difference."

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 1964 presidential race will be remembered for more reasons than the monotonous repetition of limited ideas and the fact that the future direction of the country was at stake.

The similarities and contrasts between the candidates, President Johnson and Sen. Barry Goldwater, are enough to fascinate historians and political scientists for years to come.

There's the picture of the two men feeding the public their endless diet of slogans: Johnson preaching "unity" and "morality" and Goldwater intoning about "freedom" and "morality."

While any serious debate about these abstractions is almost totally lacking, the crowds which turn out for both men cheer and applaud although it's unclear whether they're approving the men, their ideas or what they represent.

There have been no surprises in the campaign. The basic difference in the philosophy of the candidates on the government they say is needed was long known and clearly established before the campaign began.

In this grwing society, which both men are looking at, Johnson thinks government needs to be big to meet its responsibilities while Goldwater wants it smaller, with its responsibilities far more limited and some eliminated.

There's a difference even in the way they get their ideas out. If there had been no news conferences, Johnson probably would have thought them up. He uses them indoors and outdoors particularly outdoors in a new twist, leading newsmen and beagles in a fast walk while answering questions.

Goldwater, who in the past sometime talked too fast when he talked off the cuff, relies now mostly on written speeches and avoids news conferences. He hasn't had one since August.

Last week when he addressed editors here he refused to answer their questions, saying it wouldn't be fair since he didn't let their reporters ask him questions.

The two men disagree just as much on how to handle foreign policy as they do on the problems at home.

And there's a difference in their campaign tactics: Their conduct with crowds in particular.

Goldwater has been campaigning since August. Actually, counting the primaries earlier in 1964, he's been campaigning all year. Johnson made a number of so-called non-political trips that served his political purposes.

Nevertheless, he didn't hit the road allout until recently, a delay which may be largely due to his respect for the political sagacity of President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

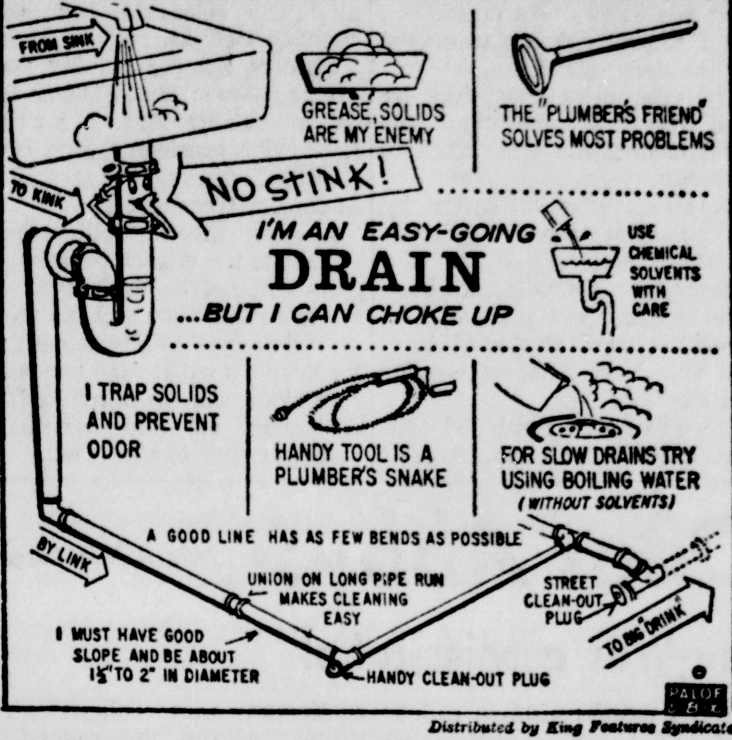

He remembers that in the 1940 campaign, Roosevelt didn't go on the road until about three weeks before the election. For whatever his reason, Johnson started a little sooner, but not much sooner.

Johnson, in the tradition of the handshaking American politician, likes to mingle with the crowds. It seems to enliven him. But this, according to repeated

DEAR ABBY: I am a college freshman. I drew a girl's name for the freshman mixer. When I called for her at her dorm I was pleased to find a nice-looking girl with a friendly personality. I spent most of the evening trying to talk her out of what she was trying to talk me into. Abby, I want to be pure for the girl I marry, but if this one is any example of what I have to put up with, I am going to have some fight on my hands. How can a fellow act like a

Swimming Stars Give U.S. First Medals of Olympics

TOKYO (AP) — Blond Don Schollander brought the United States its first gold medal of the Tokyo Olympics Monday, winning the men's 100-meter freestyle convincingly in Games record time of 3.4 seconds.

The United States also added three silver and one bronze medal on this second day of competition, while Russia's blonde young Galina Prozumenshikova acquired her country's second gold medal.

Schollander, an 18-year-old Yale student from Lakewood, Ore., won by a clear-cut edge over England's Bobby McGregor and Germany's Hans Joachim Klein, second and third respectively in 3. and 4 flat.

Other U.S. medal winners were Jeanne Collier and Patsy Willard, second and third in women's springboard diving; bantamweight Isaac Berger second in weightlifting, and Claudia Kolb, second to Miss Prozumenshikova in the women's 200-meter breaststroke.

The 1-year-old Russian girl was timed in 2:46.4, a Games record, while Miss Kolb, from Santa Clara, Calif., finished in 2:47.6.

Miss Collier, a pert 18-year-old from Phoenix, took second in springboard diving on the strength of an outstanding effort on her final dive, giving her a total of 138.36 points and a paper-thin edge over Miss Willard, Mesa, Ariz., who had 138.18.

Germany's Ingrid Kramer-Engel, the defending champion, won the gold medal with 14.0 points.

Berger won the silver medal in his weightlifting division with

McCallister Cops Camellia Tourney

SUNSET CITY, Calif. (AP) — Bob McCallister headed for Las Vegas, Nev., today $3,300 richer, after coming out on top in a wild scramble for first place in the $2,000 Sunset-Camellia Open Golf Tournament.

The 30-year-old Corona, Calif., pro hadn't won a PGA tournament since the Orange County Open in 1961. Trailing by two strokes going into the final round Sunday he said he knew "I had to break par to win."

He just barely did it, with a one-under 70 for 281.

Stan Leonard of Vancouver, B.C., and Pete Brown of Los Angeles tied for second at 282. George Bayer, of Incline Village, Nev., finished with 283 for third.

Canton Gains Tie In United League

CLEVELAND (AP) — The United Football League's half-way mark rolled around over the weekend with the Canton Bulldogs defeating Charleston, 21-14, to move into a tie with the Rockets for first in the Western Division.

In the Eastern Division, full-back Roger Lopes paced the leading Indianapolis Warriors to a 2-14 lacing of Toledo and set a league rushing record of 218 yards against the Tornados.

Wheeling remained a game behind Indianapolis with a 42-2 conquest of the Joliet Explorers, and Grand Rapids tripped up the Quebec Rifles, 14-10.

Jerry Claiborne, Kentucky '50, is in his fourth season as football coach at Virginia Tech.

Bucks Point For Trojans

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — There's an idea floating around that Ohio State Woody Hayes has a tendency to take non-conference games in stride while concentrating on Big Ten foes.

But Woody has won 24, lost 9 and tied 1 against independent opponents, and it's an odds-on bet he'll go all out to make it 25 victories Saturday.

The Bucks entertain Southern California, which has a 3-1 record and a 99-30 scoring advantage, and the fray will be on national television. The Bucks, after smacking Big Ten and Rose Bowl champion Illinois by 26-0 Saturday, are 3-0 with a 70-17 scoring advantage.

But, in addition to enhancing their national prestige — they were fourth last week and should go up after routing second-rated Illinois — the Bucks have a bit of vengeance to go after as they tackle the Trojans.

Just a year ago, on the coast, Southern Cal whipped Ohio 32-3 — the biggest margin ever amassed against Hayes. The Trojans held Ohio to eight first downs, intercepted four passes while the Bucks were completing three, and outgained the Haymen 407 to 178.

Last Saturday Southern Cal drubbed Texas A.M. 31 to 7, so the Bucks can't afford a let-down after their stirring triumph over the Illini which boosted them to the No. 1 spot in the Western Conference and further along the road to a Rose Bowl bid.

Miami's Redskins, Mid-American loop leaders after nosing out rejuvenated Kent State 17-1, also step outside the league his week to meet Northwestern's Wildcats at Evanston. The Oxford crew tops the Mid-Am with a 3-0 mark, and only 1-0 Bowling Green of the other members remains unsullied.

While Miami is coveting against the Big Ten team, Bowling Green gets a chance to move up by playing four-time loser Toledo, while Kent State—with a tie and a loss in league play—goes against Western Michigan's two-time losers.

Wittenberg, 4-0 in the Ohio conference and headed toward its fourth straight title, visits Marietta for a night tilt. The Pioneers, after losing three in a row, swept unbeaten Hiram into the also-ran list Saturday by 13 to 12. Wooster's three-game winning streak was halted 7 to 0 by Denison which moved into the conference's runner-up berth with a 1-0 record.

Ohio teams took some humiliating losses Saturday from out-of-state foes, although the Buckeye teams won 7, lost and tied one against the outsiders. Swannee whipped Kenyon 41-7, Bucknell ran up a highest-ever 72-0 score against Ohio Wesleyan, and Central State was dumped 6-1 by Florida A.M. Despite being outscored 269 to OHIO TRIPS ILLINI IN BIG TEN SHOWDOWN 26-0 — Last gasp for Illinois in the Big Ten showdown at Champaign, Wayne Paulson (21) gets by a diving tackle by Buckeye Gary Miller, returns a punt 15 yards, and then fumbled as OSU recovered with 54 seconds left. Ohio State scored in every period to take over undisputed top spot in the Big Ten and dampen Illinois' Homecoming crowd of 71,227.

Ramey, Smith Are Named 'Top Tigers' by Grid Staff

Mike Ramey and Bob Smith were named "Tigers of the Week" by the Circleville coaching staff following a careful study of game films of Friday's tilt with Washington C. H.

The scores for all the boys were real low," Coach Paul Starr commented today. "We had more missed assignments than in any game played this year."

"The play was inconsistent, both on offense and defense," the Tiger mentor continued.

"But I was real proud of that goal line stand. That's the mark of a real football team," he explained. "It's how well they defend that goal line that counts."

HE WAS referring to Washington's inability to score from the two-yard line after the Blue Lions blocked a punt and recovered it there.

Tiger heads went to Steve and Howard Dade and to Gary Leasure on kickoff tackles. Mike Wells was given the award for recovering a fumble that set up the second Circleville touchdown.

Mick Tomlinson, Charlie Smith, Tom Fletcher and Rich Samuel all earned the award for causing fumbles. Jack Martin was awarded one for deflecting a pass.

Howard Dade had two for interceptions. His first pilfer set up Circleville's first score.

This week's game is with Wilmington.

Starr noted today the Hurricane is "big and fast. It will take more than a 100 per cent effort on our part just to give them a good game," he added.

"THEY have the edge in everything — speed, size and experience," he explained.

The CHS Tigers and Wilmington are defending co-champions of the South Central Ohio League.

Cardinal Luck Holds Up as Series Is Tied

NEW YORK (AP) — It was Branch Rickey, now a consultant with the St. Louis club, who once said:

"Luck is the residue of desire."

The Cardinals must have a lot of desire because through the years they have had a lot of luck in World Series play.

It is this residue of desire that helped the Cards win the World Series in 1926, 1930, 1934, 1942, 1944 and 1946.

The 4-3 triumph over the New York Yankees Sunday which squared the 1964 World Series at two victories apiece demonstrated anew that the Cardinal luck — ballplayers call it "breaks" — is still holding out.

In Missouri, they are singing the praises of Kenny Boyer, whose grand-slam homer in the sixth inning overcame a 3-0 Yankee lead.

In Lakewood, Calif., and Toing over the brilliant relief pitching of hometown heroes Roger Craig and Ron Taylor. In Houston, they are happy over Johnny Keane, who is managing the heck out of the Cardinals, seeking his first world championship in his 27th year of managing.

But in New York, they will tell you that it took a break for the Cardinals to win the fourth game — a rare miscue by the usually sure-handed Bobby Richardson on a sure-fire double-play ball that would have ended the inning without a score.

There were two runners on base with one out when Dick Groat hit a routine grounder to the right of second base. Richardson fielded the ball, tried to shovel it over to Phil Linz for what looked like the start of a twin killing.

Let Richardson explain what happened:

"It got stuck in my web. As Phil came across, I hesitated, throwing him off his timing and when I threw it with my gloved hand, (Curt) Flood hit Linz and he couldn't handle the throw."

Instead of the inning being over, the Cards had the bases loaded. Boyer unloaded them two pitches later with a smash into the left-field stands. Until then, young Al Downing had a three-hit shutout.

Thus, instead of the Yankees having a chance to end it at Yankee Stadium today, they must return to St. Louis Tuesday for a sixth game Wednesday, and perhaps a seventh game Thursday.

The New York Yankees beat Kansas City 12 times in 18 meetings this year.

BROTHER AGAINST BROTHER—It's the Boyer brothers, Cletis (left) and Ken, against each other in the World Series, the first time they've played against each other. Both play third.

By CYNTHIA OWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Adam Cartwright met an attractive scoundrel Sunday night on "Bonanza." True to the traditions of television's Old West, we knew that he was a scoundrel almost immediately — he sneaked $50 from Adam's wallet and he kept nipping whiskey from a pint bottle.

Of course, the Cartwrights of the Ponderosa are so rich Adam didn't miss the money. But when a pretty girl's father was shot dead a half hour later, we knew that earnest Adam shouldn't trust that fellow for a minute.

Of course, it worked out in the end. But there was an awkward and phony little scene in which Adam had to pick up a sofa pillow and lo and behold there was the missing bullet everyone had been hunting for. The bullet proved the scoundrel was the killer.

That's the way NBC's "Bonanza" rides along, tall and proud in the network saddle, year after year.

Sunday night's simple, leisurely tale was a whodunit disguised in a 10 gallon hat. "Bonanza" in spite of all the guns, is not a particularly violent show.

It does have a plus in the magnificent scenery—it really soars in color—handsome horses and colorful Western costumes. It is a nice, comfortable program and never makes any demands of the viewer who can even tune in late and catch up with the plot.

"Meet the Press" celebrates a slightly delayed birthday Sunday with Diosdado Macapagal, president of the Philippines, as its guest. The NBC news interview show had its beginning on Oct. 5, 1945, as a radio program and moved to TV two years later.

It is almost always an interesting program and its panelists usually show clearly that they have done their homework. May it continue for another 19 years.

Recommended tonight: "Andy Williams Show," NBC, 9 to 10 EDT, with Liberate and Phil Harris; "Slattery's People," CBS, 10-11, Ed Wynn guest stars as a man fighting the closing of a home for the aged.

Unwanted QB Passes Redskins to First Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Baltimore hosts St. Louis tonight in a National Football League game that could shake up the two division standings a bit, but the talk around the league is about Sonny Jurgensen, the quarterback the Philadelphia Eagles didn't want.

Jurgensen put on a spectacular passing show as the Washington Redskins won their first game of the season, 35-20, against the Eagles Sunday.

The veteran signal caller discussed the game with a smile.

"It's a heck of a lot easier," Jurgensen said, "to throw the ball standing up."

Jurgensen spent most of his first four games as a Redskin nursing a bad left knee on the sidelines or managing the turf when he did play. It was a different story Sunday.

He clicked on 22 of 33 passes for 386 yards and five touchdowns. It was the best one-day show by an NFL quarterback this year and the fact that Jurgensen did it against the Eagles didn't exactly sadden the ex-Philadelphia passer.

Elsewhere in the NFL Sunday, Green Bay topped San Francisco 24-14, Chicago whacked Los Angeles 38-17, Detroit outlasted Minnesota 24-20 and New York struggled to a 13-13 tie against Dallas. In a Saturday night game Pittsburgh upset Cleveland 23-7.

Jim Taylor scored twice and rolled up 133 yards in 23 carries as the Packers got by the 49ers.

The Packers' Paul Hornung suffered a pinched shoulder nerve in second period and handled only kicking chores after that. But Taylor's rushing picked up the slack.

Billy Wade fired four touchdown passes, two each to Johnny Morris and Mike Ditka, as the Bears snapped their two-game losing string. Chicago turned three interceptions into scores in the first half and raced to a 24-3 halftime margin.

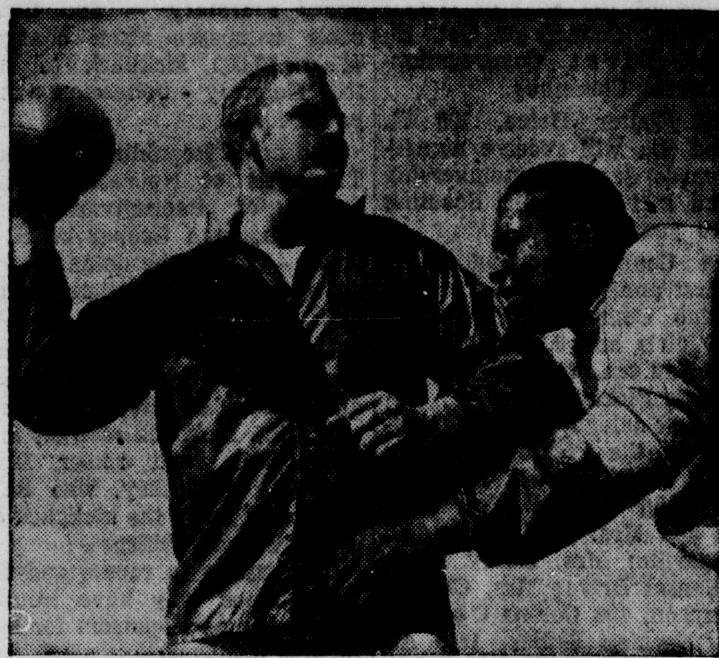

The Lions tied the Colts for the Western Division lead but it wasn't easy against the stubborn Vikings. Detroit scored the winning touchdown on a 12-yard Earl Morrall pass to Gail Cogdill early in the fourth period.

The Praying Colonels of little Centre College down Kentucky way astounded the collegiate football world by beating mighty Harvard 6-0 in 1921.

Now, it may be the Praying Broncos of Denver who will surprise the American Football League.

Beaten in 14th straight games the Broncos opened the regime of new Coach Mac Speedie by whacking the Kansas City Chiefs Sunday 33-27 before 16,285 who, Speedie said, "sounded like 50,000 yelling for us."

And just as the Centre Colonels prayed before each game, so it will be for the Broncos from now on, Speedie said.

"We weren't praying for victory," Speedie said of the team prayer Sunday. "We asked for a spirit of unity, that we would look good and try to win."

The Broncos looked good all right. They came from behind a 13-12 halftime deficit and roared to a 33-13 lead in the fourth quarter on Lionel Taylor's sensational catch of Jack Lee's 39-yard pass as he fell into the end zone.

Three pass interceptions by Goose Gonsoulin and Charlie Mitchell's 8-yard touchdown run helped in the Denver triumph.

"This was a victory by 34 players and four coaches and Jack Lee was the general," Speedie said.

The Buffalo Bills walloped the Houston Oilers 48-17 in Sunday's other AFL game for undisputed possession of first place in the Eastern Division with a 5-0 mark. The Boston Patriots, now 4-1, fell out of a tie by losing to the San Diego Chargers 26-17 Friday.

Matt Snell reeled off 168 yards in 26 carries to lead the New York Jets to a 3-13 trouncing of the Oakland Raiders Saturday night. Marshall Starks, a New York back, suffered a broken leg in a pileup during the second period.

San Jose State split 10 football games last season and almost divided points in their games. The Spartans made 187 points to 194 for their rivals.

Court To Eye Virginia Rule

Vote Certificate Plan To Get Study

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court agreed today to review a decision that Virginia's certificate-of-residence plan for voting in federal elections violates the federal Constitution.

The decision was given by a special three-judge federal court in Richmond. It was appealed to the highest tribunal by Atty. Gen. Robert Y. Button of Virginia.

The Supreme Court did not set a date to hear argument on the appeal.

The plan was adopted in an emergency session of the Virginia Legislature in November 1963. It required voters who do not pay poll tax to file certificate of residence before elections. Voters who pay poll tax in local and state elections are not required to file the certificates.

In ruling against the plan, the special court said it placed an invalid burden on voters in elections for president, vice president, and Congress.

Virginia's Legislature adopted the certificate plan in anticipation of adoption of the 24th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution. That amendment bars the poll tax as a requirement for voting in federal elections.

The court also agreed to review a decision that the secretary of state may prohibit travel of U.S. citizens to Cuba.

The decision was given by a three-judge U. S. district court in New Haven, Conn., in a case filed by Louis Zemel. His counsel appealed directly to the Supreme Court, contending the case raised substantial questions as to the secretary's authority to restrict foreign travel of citizens "in peacetime, and the constitutionality of such action."

Zemel, a U.S. citizen, in 1962 held a passport which he requested the passport office in Washington to validate for travel to Cuba as a tourist. His request was denied with the explanation that only persons whose travel might be in the best interests of the United States, such as newsmen and businessmen with previously established interests, were eligible.

Zemel later filed his complaint in federal court in New Haven. He said he wished to satisfy his curiosity about the state of affairs in Cuba so as to make him a better-informed citizen.

Better Classification Sought

Insurance Rate Reduction Hinges on November Levy

Circleville's initial steps to reduce basic fire insurance rates will hinge on a one - mill levy that will be decided by city voters in November.

City firemen and officials, affirming the need for improved firefighting capabilities, say the immediate aim is to improve Circleville's current eighth class fire protection rating. They note that a better classification could lead to decreased insurance rates.

The one - mill levy would produce an estimated $60,000 over a three - year period. According to Fire Chief Bernard Wolfe, this money would be used to purchase new equipment — one of the essentials in reducing the city's present classification.

As city officials see the situation, a first step would be to attain a No. 7 classification. The next effort would center on moving into a No. 6 slot.

STEPS already have been taken toward obtaining the No. 7 rating. This was done several weeks ago when City Council authorized another lieutenant for the fire department and the addition of a fireman.

Citing the need for an eventual No. 6 classification, Chief Wolfe explained that mercantile buildings would be the only structures awarded a reduction in fire insurance basic rates on a change from No. 8 to No. 7. He said it would take a No. 6 rating to benefit homeowners.

Further explaining classification procedures as set down by the Ohio Inspection Bureau, Wolfe said percentage changes for mercantile buildings are based on two-story structures with an occupancy of normal combustibility and damageability. These changes also apply to special hazard risks, except where sprinkler facilities are available or where they are rated under a schedule other than the analytical system.

In defining the differences in classifications and types of buildings, the chief said the change from No. 8 to No. 7 would mean a reduced fire insurance basic rate of 7.8 per cent on mercantile structures of brick construction and 4.6 per cent less on contents such as stock and furnishings. The decrease would be 5.1 per cent for those of frame construction and 2.9 per cent less on stock and furnishings.

Homeowners, though not benefitting under the No. 7 classification, would see a sizeable change with a No. 6 classification. According to Chief Wolfe, rates would be 15.7 per cent less on houses of brick construction and 7.3 per cent less on frame dwellings.

These home percentages, the chief said, are based on homeowner policies of $12,000 for three - year premiums, approved roof dwelling.

PRESENT objectives, provided the levy is passed in November, is the purchase of a new aerial ladder truck and replacement of a 1940 vehicle.

Wolfe said other equipment needs fall in the category of two-way radio communication with city police, new fire hose and gear for drying the hose after it has been used in order to preserve it.

Today in Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three Republican senators are demanding new public hearings in the Bobby Baker case before the Nov. 3 presidential election.

They want the Senate Rules Committee to question Baker — former Senate Democratic majority secretary — and three other witnesses about charges of a $2,000 kickback to the 1960 Kennedy - Johnson campaign fund.

The three Republicans — Carl T. Curtis of Nebraska, Hugh Schott of Pennsylvania and John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky — made the demand in a letter to the committee chairman, B. Everett Jordan, D-N.C.

The other witnesses they want questioned include insurance agent Don B. Reynolds, who made the kickback charge, and Democratic fund raiser Matthew H. McCloskey, who Reynolds said made the kickback on a government contract.

Congress is in recess and the Republicans may have trouble drumming up a quorum for any further hearings.

WASHINGTON (AP)—A congressional report says former Texas agriculture tycoon Billy Sol Estes got no special favors from government officials through bribery, political influence or pressure.

However, the report on Estes, now awaiting appeal of fraud charges growing out of the collapse of his financial empire, criticized federal agencies for lack of coordination in various investigations of the case.

James Naughton, counsel for the subcommittee that made the report, said there was no evidence that Estes ever knew President Johnson although he claimed to have met the then vice president once at a Washington reception.

Republican presidential candidate Barry Goldwater has used the Estes case in charging wrongdoing in the Kennedy-Johnson administration.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. Otis Singletary, 43, a Southern educator, is coming to Washington to head the new job corps, a major program in President Johnson's war on poverty.

Johnson's appointment of Singletary, a Mississippi native and University of North Carolina chancellor, was announced over the weekend.

The ultimate aim is to provide training leading to employment for about one million jobless youths.

Singletary is taking a leave of absence from the university to take the appointment, which ends in February 1966.

Man, 26, Is Indicted In Pioneer Bank Holdup

BRYAN, Ohio (AP)—A Holland, Ohio, man, picked up unarmed in neighboring Fulton County over the weekend, has been indicted for armed robbery in the $5,900 holdup last Tuesday of the Pioneer Banking Co. in Pioneer, near the Michigan line.

Williams County prosecutor William H. Weaver said Orville E. Culp, 26, was indicted last Friday by a county grand jury before his arrest Saturday near Wauseon in Fulton County.

Culp was picked up by Fulton County Sheriff Loran Yoder in a rural area following two telephone tips.

New Way Found To Stop Hair Loss, Grow More Hair

HOUSTON, Texas — If you don't suffer from male pattern baldness, you can now stop your hair loss . . . and grow more hair.

For years "they said it couldn't be done." But now a firm of laboratory consultants has developed a treatment that is not only stopping hair loss . . . but is really growing hair! They don't even ask you to take their word for it. If they believe that the treatment will help you, they invite you to try it for 32 days, at their risk, and see for yourself!

Naturally, they would not offer this no-risk trial unless the treatment worked. However, it is impossible to help anyone already slick bald.

The great majority of cases of excessive hair fall and baldness are the beginning and more fully developed stages of male pattern baldness and cannot be helped.

But, if you are not already slick bald, how can you be sure what is actually causing your hair loss? Even if baldness may seem to "run in your family," this is certainly no proof of the cause of YOUR hair loss.

Many conditions can cause hair loss. No matter which one is causing your hair loss, if you wait until you are slick bald and your hair roots are dead, you are beyond help. So, if you still have any hair on top of your head, and would like to stop your hair loss and grow more hair . . . now is the time to do something about it before it's too late.

Loesch Laboratory Consultants, Inc., will supply you with treatment for 32 days, at their risk, if they believe the treatment will help you. Just send them the information listed below. All inquiries are answered confidentially, by mail and without obligation. Adv.
